A four-hour standoff with a man wanted for aggravated assault ended with the man shooting himself Wednesday afternoon.

When U.S. Marshals went to the man's apartment at 14th and Hall shortly after 9:00 Wednesday morning, the Killeen Police Department says the man pulled out a gun and said he was going to kill himself.

Killeen's SWAT team was called in and officers say around 1:30 in the afternoon the man shot himself. A two-block perimeter around the downtown apartment was established by police.

Killeen Police Department spokesperson Carroll Smith says, "Anytime there's a weapon involved, you want to take anybody out of harms way and you don't want anybody to be able to walk by or anything else because you never know what anybody is going to do."

Neighbor Ray Kerley says, "Then you see a SWAT team coming around with all of these guys with these helmets and guns and stuff on. So that part was kind of scary."

The man was taken to Darnall Army Hospital where he later died. He has been identified as 53-year-old Hervial Callender.
